SENATE IS DRIVING AHEAD ON TAX PLAN AS DEBATE RAGE

SALES TAX ADVOCATES WON INITIAL PARLIAMENTARY VICTORIES

AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Advocates of a three per cent "gross proceeds" or sales tax with numerous exemptions today won initial parliamentary rounds in the senate.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston proposed the levy as an amendment to a house bill imposing graduated license taxes up to $750 on each store in large chains.

Two points of order attacking validity of the sales tax amendment were over-ruled and the debate was started. Senator Holbrook advocated the tax as a means of raising revenue to pay old age pensions and eliminate the state's deficit.

"You can talk all you want to about soak-the-rich taxes," Holbrook said, "but you can't raise enough money that way. You've gone the limit of that; you saw congress make a fine mess of it."

Necessities of life, including certain staple foods, medicines, electric power, water and gas would be exempt from the levy, as would certain other gross proceeds, including life insurance companies, banks, building and loan associations, producers sales of farm and ranch products, and societies for educational, religious, charitable and scientific purposes.

Senator Will M. Martin of Hillsboro, presiding over-ruled a contention the amendment was invalid in that it changed the original purpose of the bill.

Another Attack.

A second attack upon its validity failed as the chair over-ruled a contention by Senator Tom DeBerry of Bogata that a section reallocating receipts of occupation taxes vitiated the entire amendment.

The section would allocate receipts of cigarette, sulphur, oil,

ROOSEVELT'S SONS CRASH INTO TRAIN BOSTON LAST NIGHT

JOHN AND JAMES ROOSEVELT FIRST SMASH THROUGH GATES AT CROSSING

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Quick action by John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, prevented serious injury to him and his brother, James, when his car crashed through a crossing gate and collided with an electric train.

James was unhurt. John's left shoulder was bruised; his roadster was severely damaged.

The two sons of the President were riding in John's roadster en route to the East Boston airport last night. James intended to take a plane to New York after visiting here. John was driving, police said.

As the car neared a crossing of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad, the gates were dropped for a Boston-bound train.

The Roosevelt car splintered one gate but John swerved to the right, bringing his car parallel to the train and heading in the same direction.

Simultaneously, William J. Norton, operator of the train, jammed on the brakes. As the train and car collided the front steps

STEP-FATHER HAS CONFESSED MURDER TWO LITTLE GIRLS

DESIRE TO GET RID OF STEP-DAUGHTERS PROMPTED THEIR DROWNINGS

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Oakland county officers said today that a coroner's autopsy had confirmed Ferrin Rowland's confession to St. Louis police he drowned his two little step-daughters in Muddy Bloat lake, near here three weeks ago "just to get rid of them."

Bodies of the children, Katherin Woodin, six, and her two-year-old sister, Virginia, were found by searchers last night a few hours after the stop-father's capture and confession. The bodies had been trussed together with heavy wire and weighted with a plowshare, as he had told police he bound them and then tipped them from a rowboat into 25 feet of water.

Coroner J. Lee Voorhees, who conducted the autosy, said death appeared to have been caused by drowning and he had found no marks to indicate they had been struck before they were dropped into the lake.

The coroner's examination bore out Rowland's statement to police that he left his Harrison, Mich., home with the children, ostensibly to place them in a children's home at Flint, but instead had taken them to the lonely lake.

Rowland insisted that his wife, now held in jail at Harrison without charge, had no part in the slaying of the children, and said he told her he had placed them with a family at Flint for adoption.

Traced to St. Louis by letters he wrote his brother, Elmer, also detained by officers for questioning, the carpenter was captured by St.

FIFTY NATIONS TO PARTICIPATE BANS ITALY'S AGGRESSION

AUSTRIA, HUNGARY, AND ONE OTHER OPPOSES PENAL MEASURES

By WADE WERNER
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)
(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Oct. 10.—The League of Nations, with 50 of its 59 members definitely on record as approving the punishment of Italy for its invasion of Ethiopia, moved for a quick application of that punishment.

The steering committee of the league assembly decided that representatives of every member of the league except Italy and Ethiopia should serve on a committee to co-ordinate the work of the council and the assembly in instituting sanctions against Italy.

Since Germany will leave the league Oct. 21, the decision means that the co-ordination commission will be made up of 56 nations.

At a morning meeting, the assembly gave its overwhelming approval to the council's condemnation of Italy.

Only Italy, Austria, and Hungary announced non-acceptance of the council's report against Italy, although in league circles it was suggested Albania probably would at least make reservations to the general vote of condemnation.

In an afternoon session of the assembly, Tecle Hawariate, the Ethiopian delegate, charged anew his nation was the victim of atrocious aggression.

He declared: "It is not war but massacre, because of the superiority of the Italian armament."

He said he would accept, in the name of the Ethopian government, all procedure which the league decides on with a view toward ending the hostilities but that he would accept nothing which would place a premium on aggression.

Approval of the league's stand for sanctions was expressed by representatives of Ecuador, Chile, Yugoslavia, and Greece.

The latter two delegates said they represented the little entente and the Balkan entente respectively in holding that the league

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances A. Robinson collapsed on the witness stand today while under cross examination by government counsel in the Stoll kidnaping trial.

On trial jointly with her father-in-law, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., for complicity in the $50,000 kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll here a year ago today, Mrs. Robinson had given a detailed account of her life with Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., who is hunted as the kidnaper. Shortly after their marriage, she said, he shot and wounded her. She also testified he had been in an insane asylum for a time.

Assistant District Attorney Oldham Clark was cross questioning her as to why she went to Chicago with her husband prior to the kidnaping when she slumped back in the witness chair.

"I can't say," she said, in tears. For a time she was unable to proceed with her testimony.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances A. Robinson related that her husband, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., shot her twice after they were married as she took the witness stand today in her own defense at the Stoll kidnaping trial.

Murder of Pretty High School Girl Proves Mystery

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Mystery surrounded today the slaying of Muriel Hall, pretty 18-year-old high school girl, who was strangled to death in the living room of her home in a fashionable residential district.

With only the unmistakable mark of a fingernail on her slender neck and an unlatched door as clues, police were questioning friends and schoolmates of the girl in the hope that the might find some motive for the slaying.

The girl was found dead by her foster father, Leonard I. Halls, manufacturing company executive, when he returned home from his office last evening.

ITALIAN MINISTER TO ETHIOPIA SAYS HOLY CITY FALLEN

PROTESTS INSINUATION RADIO ILLEGALLY USED; WAITS FOR CONSULS

By JAMES A. MILLS
(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.)

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 10.—The fall of the holy city of Askum before the Italian advance and wholesale killings of Ethiopians by Italian air bombs in the south were announced officially today by the Italian minister and the Ethiopian government respectively.

Emperior Haile Selassie requested the minister, Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, to leave at once thereby, with the recall of the Ethiopian charge d'affaires, Negradas Yesus, from Rome, rupturing diplomatic relations between Ethiopia and Italy.

Reports from Aksum, before communications were cut, indicated the Italian bombing planes had spared the ancient city of the Queen of Sheba and that the monks, fleeing before the fascist infantry, were able to remove many of their holy relics.

A government communique which told of the bombing raids in the south was the first official Ethopian announcement to mention casualties on either side.

It said 9 Italian airplanes bombed Gorahei, near Gerlogubi, and also the Ethiopian post of Taffarikatama and Jailmo, which are not marked on maps, and that many were killed.

Report Crash of Plane.

The same communique said an Italian plane had crashed at Garaalta on the northern front, and that two of the fliers were killed and two were dying.

Fuurther, it was announced that 1,000 native Eritrean soldiers had deserted from Italy's northern

HAUPTMANN COUNSEL PLANNING APPEAL TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

CONVICTED KIDNAP-KILLER OF LINDBERGH BABY LOSING SOME OF HIS CALM

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Brun Richard Hauptmann's attorneys started a new drive today to save the convicted Lindbergh baby killed from the electric chair—this time through appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

The defense counsel appeared hopeful despite the flat rejection yesterday by the court of errors and appeals, New Jersey's highest tribunal, of their plea for a reversal of Hauptmann's conviction.

They decided to meet today or tomorrow to draft the first steps in their new campaign.

Hauptmann remained in his cell in the death house of the state prison, awaiting the promised visit of his wife, Anna, for their tenth wedding anniversary today.

"My God, what a fine anniversary present for Anna," Hauptmann said of the decision.

He had lost some of the calm that has marked his bearing since his arrest in New York's Bronx over a year ago. Prison officals said he did not eat his regular meal last night and appeared "slightly nervous but not noticeably upset."

C. Lloyd Fisher, one of the attorneys, broke the news to him

PRINCIPALS IN LATEST GREEK EVENTS

Events in Greece are aparently shaping themselves for the early recall to the throne of the exiled former King George as the government of Premier Tsaldaris resigned and General George Kondylis, minister of war and ardent monarchist, took the helm of state and surrounded himself with a loyal royalist cabinet. Above are pictured the former King George, the former Queen Elizabeth, who divorced George this year, and Premier Kondylis.

GREEK GOVERNMENT RESIGNS THURSDAY; MONARCHY IS NEAR

MONARCHIST LEADER TAKES GOVERNMENT HELM AND KING GEORGE MAY RETURN

ATHENS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The government of Premier Tsaldaris resigned today and the monarchist leader, General George Kondylis, minister of war, took the helm. The resignation came in a swift move that climaxed a week's dispute over a monarchy and is expected to set the stage for the return of former King George to the throne.

President Alexander Zaimis, whose office has hung in the balance for weeks, is preparing his resignation in readiness to step down at the opportune moment.

Martial law was proclaimed and troops occupied public buildings in Athens. Quiet prevailed throughout the country, however.

Kondylis—"The Little Corporal" to his intimates who are familiar with his adoration of Alexander the Great and Napoleon—who has been openly charged by his opponents with desiring to emulate the dictatorship of Mussolini in Italy, took the portfolios of president of the council and the minister of economics.

He appointed ardent royalist associates to the other cabinet posts.

John Theotokis, former minister of agriculture, was named foreign minister, replacing Demetriois Maximos.

M. Schina, former air minister, becomes minister of interior.

Dousmanis continues as minister of navy and Chloros assumes the portfolio of the ministry of justice.

Kondylis named Tharveris, like the others an out-and-out royalist, as his assistant in the ministry of economics.

Present plans call for the maintenance of the Kondylis government as a regency serving under King George, when and if he reclaims the throne.

Effort Be Made Put 100,000 Men To Work Daily

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The gigantic task of putting almost 100,000 men to work each day from now until Nov. 1 faced relief officials today as picked engineers of the army came to their aid in an effort to speed the program.

The present aim is to put 3,150,000 men to work by the first of next month. The original goal in the $4,000,000,000 drive was 3,500,000 by that date, but later officials predicted this aim would be 90 per cent accomplished by Nov. 1.

URGE COMPLETION HIGHWAY 22 THRU NAVARRO COUNTY

NAVARRO COUNTY REPRESENTATIVES CONFER WITH STATE COMMISSION

Navarro county representatives were scheduled to present an urgent request for completion of Highway 22 in both directions from Corsicana to the Texas Highway Commission at its hearing in the Baker Hotel at Dallas Thursday morning. The appointment for the hearing was made several days ago.

Included in the delegation were County Judge C. E. McWilliams, and J. N. Edens, Ted B. Ferguson, and A. F. Mitchell, members of the traffic and transportation committee of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce.

Dirt work and construction of drainage structures on the gap in Highway 22 between Corsicana and the Anderson county line are now nearing completion and highway engineers were reported engaged on plans for the completion of the western segment of the road between Pinkston and the Hill county line.

Bids are now being sought by the commission for dirt work and drainage structure in Mertens, Hill county, and on a section from a point 1.3 east of Brandon to the Navarro-Hill county line, completing the dirt work in Hill county.

While the cross-country highway has been the focal point of all highway activities for several months, every attempt to secure its completion has been frustrated. No construction of any kind has been done on the western section from a point west of Pinkston to the Hill county line and the plans have not even been completed, while the work now scheduled in Hill county will complete the first phase in that county.

Plans have also been held up on the bridge across Chambers Creek on the eastern segment of the road between Corsicana and Palestine.

AKSUM, CAPITAL OF QUEEN OF SHEBA, IS TAKEN BY ITALIANS

LARGE MAJORITY LEAGUE MEMBERS VOTE TO APPLY SANCTIONS ON ITALY

(By The Associated Press)

Some 50 nations in the assembly of the League of Nations today gave final approval to penalties against Mussolini's fascist government for its war against Ethiopia. The assembly took action toward invoking the penalties swiftly. As if it were a gesture of defiance, Il Duce's Roman legions, from the north and south, struck at the mountainous interior of Haile Selassie's empire.

They captured Aksum, the Holy City of the Ethiopians and legendary citadel of the Queen of Sheba. They drove south from Adigrat toward Hauzien, strategic gateway to the mountain fastnesses. They drove north from Italian Somaliland toward Gerlogubi, in the southern section.

The main objective, from both the north and south, was Harar, east of Addis Ababa in the lowlands. If successful in these operations, the Italians would gain a strip of Ethiopia from north to south along the eastern boundary and unite their province of Eritrea with Italian Somaliland.

The capture of Aksum, a center of the Coptic Christian religion of many Ethiopian tribes, was announced in Addis Ababa by the Italian minister. Shortly afterward, he was ordered to get out at once by the emperor—the third such notice in three days. And this time, he was going.

Before the single line of communication between Addis Ababa and the northern battlefield was put out of commission by the invaders, dispatches from the northern sector said the Italian forces refrained from aerial and artillery attacks on Askum.

BRITAIN MOVES TO REPAIR DAMAGE BY AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

THREE PLANS BEING WORKED OUT THAT ARE EXPECTED MAKE SANCTIONS FULL

By G. H. ANDERSON
Associated Press oreign Staff

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The British government moved swiftly behind the scenes on three fronts today, authoritative sources disclosed, to repair the damage caused by the bolt of Austria and Hungary from the League of Nations' sanctions proposals against Italy.

The British action was described as:

1. Undisguised disapproval of the position taken by Austria and Hungary with a hint that moral pressure might be brought against them.

2. Making efforts to prevent such defections from spreading to other members of the league?

3. Exerting pressure to prevent the defections from weakening or nullifying the application of economic sanctions against Italy for breaking the league covenant.

The stand of Austria and Hungary was frankly termed disappointing, although not wholly un-

BALLOTS NEXT YEAR TO CARRY MANY NAMES THAT ARE ALREADY FAMOUS THROUGHOUT NATION

By D. HAROLD OLIVER,
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The 1936 ballots will carry a liberal sprinkling of "big names." For instance, so many nationally-known men will be in the running for senate seats, that the senatorial elections promise to be of unusual interest.

The constitution says that one-third, or 32, of the senate's 96 seats must be filled every two years. Of the "constitutional 32" at stake next year, a dozen are now held by men who are veterans of at least ten years' service in the senate.

Included in this 12 are the leaders of both major parties—Joseph T. Robinson (D-Ark.) and Charles L. McNary (R-Ore.)—and the senate's dean in point of service—William E. Borah (R-Ida.) In point of service, Robinson is tied for fifth place with George W. Norris, Nebraska republican independent, whose seat also is at stake next year.

Others in the senior first twelve and their service rankings are:

Morris Sheppard (D-Tex.), of prohibition fame, tied for No. 4; Arthur Capper (R-Kans.), Pat Harrison (D-Miss.), and Henry W. Keyes (R-N. H.), tied for No. 9; Carter Glass (D-Va.), No. 10; James Couzens (R-Mich.), No. 13; Jesse H. Metcalf (R-R. I.), No. 15, and Thomas D. Schall (R-Minn.), No. 16.

The list of men whose seats will be involved in the balloting also includes such figures as James F. Byrnes (D-S. C.), one of the administration liaison men; L. J. Dickinson (R-Ia.), key-noter at the 1932 Chicago convention of his party, and J. Hamilton Lewis (D-Ill.), now recovering from a severe illness in Soviet Russia.

Borah, McNary nad Dicknison have been mentioned for the republican presidential nomination.

First race to get under way will be that for the seat of the late Senator Huey P. Long (D.-La.). Both the short and full terms will have to be filled. The primaries are in January.

PWA POWER GRANTS, LOANS FOR MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC PLANTS IS AGAIN ATTACKED BY UTILITIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The right of the public works administration to make loans and grants for municipal power and water projects will be questioned again tomorrow in District of Columbia supreme court suits involving seven Alabama and Texas cities.

The Alabama Power Company, the Texas Utilities Company and the Gulf States Utilities Company will contend the proposed projects would injure existing business and involve illegal acts under the NRA enacted by congress.

They will seek temporary injunctions to restrain Secretary Ickes, PWA administrator, from making loans and grants.

The government, at the same time, will ask that the complaints be dismissed on the ground the plaintiffs have no legal right to bring suit and the PWA is acting well within its authority.

Seek Halt Loans.

The Alabama Power Company seeks to halt loans and grants for plants to these Alabama cities: Guntersville, $87,262; Hartselle, $60,000; Russellville, $125,454. The Gulf States suit involves a loan and grant of $200,000 to Huntsville, Texas. PLAN RESUMPTION OF BEAUTIFICATION COUNTY CAMPAIGN

MEETING OF REPRESENTATIVES FROM ALL PARTS OF COUNTY IS CALLED

Rural and urban residents of Navarro county are now engaged on very definite plans for a resumption of the beautification and clean-up campaign inaugurated in this county on a wholesale basis last fall which resulted in such a pronounced success that many other counties are taking up similar endeavors and a statewide campaign has been announced by the extension service of Texas A. and M. College with regulations that greatly restrict the number of possible entrants.

A meeting of representatives from all parts of the county has been called for Corsicana on Oct. 17 and full details of the session will be announced later along with a prize list for the entire county as well as a number of community campaigns.

With millions of visitors to Texas anticipated in 1936 during the Texas Centennial celebration, Corsicana and Navarro county is vitally interested in continuing the outstanding work started last year in preparing every home for inspection by the newcomers, each of whom is a potentially new citizen of the Lone Star State.

Every resident of Navarro county who desires to enter the home beautification and improvement contest should mail a statemnet of such desire to the county farm or home demonstration agent at Corsicana, including full name and postoffice address. All entries should be received prior to October 31 so that judging can be started soon after November 1. On the scoring basis adopted, the degree of improvement will determine the prize wniners and not the ultimate appearance, in order that all might have an equal opportunity.

Those desiring information on the district or state contest may secure the details from either of the demonstration agents at the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce.

Jack Frost Pays Corsicana Visit

Shouting to the world in general and Corsicana in particular —"What Texas Makes — Makes Texas"—Jack Frost blew into this city Thursday morning.

Don't misunderstand—there was no frost in this vicinity—but Jack Frost, factory representative of the Waples Platter Company, with headquarters in Fort Worth, was very muchly here.

"Our factory covers twenty-seven acres and we can 55,000 cans of beans daily when running at capacity — we prepare twenty staple grocery items in ninety packages and my company is planning to enter Corsicana and Navarro county in a big way —with a big advertising campaign," Jack confidentially told the reporter, along with many other things in rapid succession.

To back up his statements concerning the excellence of the White Swan line Jack left a few samples for the hungry reporter to try—and with things as they are—what could be more pleasant.

The factory representative stated this was his first trip to Corsicana since 1918 but that he expected to return more often in the future.

Fourteen of the new members were brought into the room, and seated while the fifteenth, Frank Taylor, was taken thorugh the induction ceremony. At the end of this phase of the initiation the meeting was turned over to O. F. Allen, Junior High school principal and club sponsor, who delivered the charge to the other 14 members and pinned red, white and blue ribbons on them. Mr. Allen impressed the new members with the fact that as Hi-Y club members they will be expected always to do the right thing; to fight for the right; live clean lives and be true to God, their parents, their friends and themselves.

Mr. Douglas made a few remarks concerning the impressiveness of the ceremony.

Mr. Jester gave an interesting talk upon the three objectives of the Hi-Y club, clean speech, clean sports and clean living.

The club numbers 45 enthusiastic members this year, and indications are that it will have a year of much constructive work.

ARMY RECRUITING STATION SEEKING ARTILLERYMEN HERE

The United States Army recruiting station located at postoffice in Corsicana has been assigned a quota for the procurement of the increase of personnel of the 77th Field Artillery to be stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Marfa, Texas.

The conditions under which this battalion is being organized parallels so closely mobilization conditions that advantage will be taken of the opportunity to put to test the training program which will be used in the event of mobilization.

Starting from scratch, so to speak, the men will be trained for sixteen weeks in accordance with this mobilization program. At the end of this period inspection and tests will show the efficiency of the program. This is the first time such a test has been made by a unit of the regular army in time of peace.

This battalion will be designated as the First Battalion, 77th Field Artillery (155 M-M howitzers), and will consist of 19 officers and five hundred and fifteen (515) enlisted men, with a station complement of three officers and fifty-seven enlisted men. By October 15th the battalion will have its full quota of officers and a small cadre of fifty-two non-commissioned officers and enlisted men for key position. The remanider, which is four hundred, sixty-three (463) enlisted men, will be recruited from this section. It is expected that the battalion will be at full strength by November 1 when training begins.

This will be an excellent opportunity for ambitious young men to advance rapidly as all promotions in non-commissioned officers grades will be made within the regiment in the sixteen weeks.

TEXAS WOMAN GAVE BIRTH TO QUINTUPLETS HALF CENTURY AGO ACCORDING TO FIVE-LINE STORY

BONHAM, Texas, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Did you ever hear of the Couch quintuplets?

No—Not the Dionnes; they came along half a century later. The Couch kiddies had their dim moment long before the glaring light of publicity turned such feats into world sensations.

It was "the talk of the country around" when Mrs. Billie Couch gave birth to her babes at an isolated farm near the Red River in Feb., 1884. But so far as attaining world fame was concerned this frontier mother labored in vain.

A "word-of-mouth" report of the remarkable event seeped out and finally reached the town of Graham—all of a hundred miles away—and the editor of the local newspaper put it down in history with a five-line story.

"'A lady living near Ravenna, eight miles north of the city of (Bonham) gave birth last Wednesday to five children, all boys. The name of the parents is Thompson, and the father informs us that he has named the boys respectively Cleveland, Hendricks, Bayard, Manning andd Chenoweth. Mother and boys are doing well."

So said the Graham Leader in its terse summary. There were no high speed communications to carry the story to a sensation-hungry world, fortunes were not spent on feature stories and photographs and there was no paternal government to assume maternal charge of the youngsters.

Louis Brown, in Bonham yesterday said Mrs. Couch was his sister and the babies were pretty children, as "alike as five black-eyed peas."

As he tells the story, there were two physicians in attendance on Mrs. Couch but they were unable to save the quintuplets. The babies lived only five hours.

Unlike Dr. Dafoe, who rose from obscurity as a kindly Canadian backwoods physician to fame as a baby specialist for his work with the Dionne quintuplets, the Texas doctors who cared for Mrs. Couch and her offspring have long been forgotten. Not even their names can be recalled.

Mrs. Couch, 36 years old then, had three girls and two boys; Brown says. The "word-of-mouth" information received by the Graham paper seems to have differed with respect to the quintuplets. There also was a discrepancy in the family name, which the paper carried as "Thompson," but which Brown says was "Couch."

Brown, who lives near the old Couch home, said Mrs. Couch's husband died a few years afterward and she later remarried a "Pink" Jones, a farmer east of Bonham. She, too, is dead now.

Mrs. Fred Allison Hostess to Gardens Club With Picnic

Mrs. Fred Allison was hostess to the Better Gardens Club at her country place Wednesday, Oct. 9, at 1 o'clock. The meeting was in the form of a picnic luncheon, each member contributing to the menu.

On arriving each was presented a lovely sweetheart rose bud by Miss Blanche McKie.

The attractive lodge was made more beautiful with ferns, baskets, and bowls of the season's flowers.

After an exchange of greettings the members were invited into the dining hall by Mrs. Wade Smith, the club president. A delectable meal consisting of sweet pickles, olives, potato salad, fried chicken, cheese meat, potato chips, coffee, rolls, cake, and brick ice cream was served buffet style.

A table at one end of the room containing the silver, china, and linens was centered with a large basket of mock oranges. The long dining table was most attractive with a huge basket of tithonias and zennias interspersed with sprays of wild gypsophlia. On either side were vari-colored baskets with harmonizing tarlton bows alternating with wooden trays both of which contained the food.

The two round tables at the other end of the hall were centered with lovely bowls of Centennial and Luxenburg roses presented by Mrs. Jack McKinney and her daughter, Mrs. Jack McKinney, Jr., members of the Tyler Garden Club, who were out-of-town guests for the occasion.

A beautiful invocation was given by Mrs. Wesley Edens.

After the luncheon hour, Mrs. T. T. Price of Dallas was presented by Mrs. Smith. In her pleasing manner, she gave a very interesting and informative talk on "Bulbs the Year Round." This was followed by a round table discussion, which closed the day's program.

A great deal of credit should be given Mrs. R. L. Hamilton and Mrs. William Hastings for their untiring efforts in making this affair a success.

Notes From Better Gardens Club.

October is an ideal time to plant bulbs or to transplant perennials.

Plant larkspur, poppies, blue bonnets and phlox drummondi in October or November.

Violas bloom more freely and for a much longer period of time than the regular pansy.

Instead of burning leaves or having them carried away as trash, save them. Pile in a heap in corner of service yard, throw a little sand over them and allow to decay to be used as fertilizer.

Four Unit Show to Start Ideal Friday

On Friday and Saturday, the Ideal theatre will offer a special four-unit bargain show.

Headlining the bill will be a Clarence Mulford western, "Hopalong Cassidy," starring William Boyd. The Clarence Mulford western novels are next in popularity to those by Zane Grey and this one is the first of a series with these familiar fiction characters. The second unit on the program is the first chapter (three reels) of the new Buck Jones serial, "The Roaring West." The concluding chapter of the Tom Mix serial will be another feature, and in addition a Popeye cartoon.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR TOM SUTHERLAND BE HELD WEDNESDAY

DIES AS RESULT INJURIES RECEIVED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Funeral rites for Tom Sutherland, aged 62 years, native of Corsicana, who died in the P. and S. Hospital Tuesday afternoon at 6:15 o'clock following receiving of fatal injuries shortly after 5 o'clock when he was struck by an automobile near intersection of Highway 75 and East Third avenue, are planned from the family home, 1500 West Collin street, Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock with interment in Oakwood cemetery. The services will be conducted by Rev. Thomas Lenox, pastor of the First Christian church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Florence Sutherland; a sister, Mrs. Charles Leighton, and a brother, Ed Sutherland, all of Corsicana, and other relatives.

Sutherland-McCammon Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

R. H. Kellogg, tire salesman of Fort Worth, driver of the car figuring in the accident, accompanied the injured man to the hospital and later related incidents surrounding the accident to city police, and appeared before county officials Wednesday morning.

A formal complaint of murder was filed in Judge W. T. McFadden's justice court by Sheriff Pevehouse after the charge had been prepared by the criminal district attorney's office. Examining trial was waived and bond was set at $1,000 to await the action of the grand jury now in session. Kellogg appeared before the grand jury Wednesday morning.

It was reported that Sutherland stepped from behind another vehicle and was struck by Kellogg's vehicle.

This is the fourth automobile accident death in Navarro county this year.

Italian Troops Dying Like Flies Says Ship Master

ETHIOPIAN RESCUED PROPHET FROM A HORRIBLE DUNGEON *

Dramatic Incident In Life of Brave Jeremiah, The Prophet Who Dared Speak the Truth to The Nations----An Old Story, With Peculiar Pertinence to Our Times.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Even the man leafing his newspaper to turn to the sporting page takes, time nowadays to read the headlines about nations in commotion. There is more interest in foreign news today than at any time since the world war. Ethiopia has become a familiar word to the eye and ear of the most thoughtless.

Frequently in the Bible the name of this ancient nation appears, an impressive evidence to its antiquity. And one of the dramatic incidents of the Old Testament, which is part of today's Lesson, portrays an Ethiopian in the role of rescuer of the prophet of God.

Brave old Jeremiah, who is the hero of the present Lesson which uncuonted millions are studying, had been sorely buffeted in many ways for telling the truth as God gave it to him. No panderer to popularity, no tickler of the ears of the mighty, was this forthright prophet. At length, his foes had him cast into a dungeon—and when the Orient makes a dungeon, it makes a real one. This hole in the ground, entered only by an aperature in the top, was reserved for the worst class of prisoners. The victim had to be lowered into its depths by cords. It contained the accumulated filth of all its previous occupants. The ground was such a mire that Jeremiah sank deep into it. Food and water were scantier even than light and air. The man of God was about to die, as was the intention of his enemies.

Ethiopia To The Rescue!

Then Ebed-Melech, the Ethiopian, dared to stem the current of popular feeling against the prophet, and make open appeal to the king for clemency. He challenged the justice of the sentence upon Jeremiah, and frankly criticised the men who had done the deed. He portrayed the prophet's dying condition, and successfully pleaded for royal clemency.

In hot hastes—but not too quickly to make needed preparations—Ebed-Melech took with him a detachment of helpers, and sped to the rescue. He had gathered a collection of rags and worn-out clothing. These he first let down to the emaciated captive, and bade him put them under his arm pits, to prevent chafing by the rope. Then Jeremiah was instructed how to fasten the cords; and as tenderly as possible he was drawn up into the sunlight—a deed that every devout Jew remembers to the credit of Ethiopia.

An Amabassador To Nations.

Thus Jeremiah was preserved to carry on his mission as Jehovah's ambassador to the nations. He is the great prophet of politics. Threaded through the long book that bears his name runs this theme of national duty and national destiny, not only for the Hebrews, but also for the surrounding countries. Anybody whose literary taste has not been vitiated by thin and trivial current literature will find the Prophecy of Jeremiah enlightening and interesting and entertaining reading, with more light upon our own day than is provided by any newspaper.

Whether we want to or not, we of this day are simply compelled to think in terms of nations. The contemporary drama overseas will not always be separated from us by the Atlantic ocean. As with individuals, so with nations, the essential character of their duty remains forever the same. It is only ignorant self-delusion which makes us moderns cherish the delusion that we are different from the peoples of other times. We have the same natures, the same needs and the same obligations. Conditions that led to the collapse of Israel and Judah, and of Babylon, Assyria and Rome, are the very conditions that menace nations today. Wrong then was of a piece with wrong now. What the Prophet Jeremiah said to the nations of his time is the very message that needs to be spoken today.

Then, as now, international affairs were at a crisis. Whole peoples were rushing heedlessly on to disaster and doom, forgetful that on a throne over all sat the King of Kings, judging nations and men by clear and explicit standards. Jeremiah prophesied from the year 626 B. C. to the final fall of Jerusalem. And in the scope of his utterances were included such vast historic events as the defeat of Pharaoh Necho, of Egypt, by Nebuchadrezzar, at Carchemish, on the Euphrates the same Carchemish where a young English Oxford scholar, Thomas E. Lawrence, was working as an archaeologist when the call of opportunity came to him, and led him into world fame as Lawrence of Arabia.

A Small Town Man.

Three miles northeast of Jerusalem is the village of Anathoth, the birthplace of Jeremiah, son of a priest. It offered the especial advantages of a suburb. There as a young man the call of God came to him. He protested that he was but a child, unqualified for the prophetic office. But Jehovah touched his lips, saying, "Behold; I have put My words in thy mouth." And that is what makes the true prophet. Thenceforth, with really sublime courage, Jeremiah spoke forth the truth that was given him, heedless of opposition and danger.

In substance, Jeremiah's many messages were one message—that recovery depended upon righteousness; and that disloyalty to the clear commands of God is the sin that threatens disintegration to a nation, and sure punishment. Our modern vogue of social justice is but a rather faint echo of this ancient Jew's ringing words. Over and over again he pleaded for justice and righteousness and real religion as the only amendment that would avert doom. By parable, by figurative incident and by direct appeal, year in and year out, facing alike kings on their thrones and the rabble in the city streets, Jeremiah called the people back to God and His law, fearlessly picturing the fate that awaited them otherwise. Invective, appeal, allusion—all the arrows of oratory were in his full quiver.

A Pictorial Prophet.

Two factors go into the making of every good speech: new information and pertinent illustrations. Jeremiah found

"Tongues in trees,
Books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones,
And good in everything."

In the almond tree he saw a parable. He portrayed the fate of the exiles and of those who remained behind by two baskets of figs, one full of good fruit and one of rotten. He sent a yoke to King Zedekiah in dramatic symbolism.

Vividness marked this old prophet's career, as well as his mind. He dwelt in the turbulent days of the Scythian, Assyrian and Egyptian invasions, and saw the final destruction of Jerusalem. He was mobbed, imprisoned in stocks and in a dungeon. He was shamed by his neighbors, derided by the crowds and opposed by the powerful.

When, with the help of faithful Baruch, the scribe, he reduced his prophesies to writing, they reached the king, who cut the scroll to pieces with a penknife and threw the fragments into the fire. Yet the day came when he told the king that captivity awaited him, and that his eyes would be put out, as came to pass.

Putting his revelation above the advice of princes and generals and counsellors, Jeremiah advised submission to Nebuchadrezzar, for which he was labelled a defeatist and a slacker. Too late the wisdom of his proposal was perceived. Now he speaks to us, and to the ages.

UNITED STATES NEUTRALITY PROGRAM WINS PRAISE FROM SENATORS OF BOTH PARTIES

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The neutrality program proclaimed by President Roosevelt won praise today from several senators and a man who had charge of enforcing America's neutrality policy before she entered the world war.

The opinion was expressed that the new policy should be applied literally even if it meant loss of a $50,000,000 export trade with Italy.

"You can't compare commercial transactions with the loss of human lives," commented Senator Norris (R-Neb.). Others took a similar position, including Senators Donahey (D-Ohio) and Pope (D-Idaho) and Charles Warren of Dedham, Mass., who was assistant attorney general from 1914 to 1918 and as such had charge of the enforcement of matters connected with America's neutrality.

The new policy on which they commented embraces an embargo on arms shipments to Italy and Ethiopia, and presidential warnings that Americans who travel on ships of either country, or carry on any transactions with them, do so at their own risk.

The United States exported $44,000,000 worth of goods to Italy the first eight months of 1935, as compared with a few thousand dollars worth to Ethiopia.

Concerning this point, Norris said: "You can't trade human lives for any commercial benefits. We could afford to lose that trade with Italy."

The fact that the President went beyond the wording of the neutralit act in declaring "any transactions" with the belligerents would be at the risk of the participant and without governmental protection drew praise from Donahey.

Claimed Ethiopian Morale Collapsed

ROME, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie has ordered a shake-up among the chieftains commanding his troops because of the "collapse of their morale," Italian war correspondents reported today.

The emperor's action was determined by the success of the Italian advance on the first day (Oct. 2), the dispatches added. The damaged morale, the correspondents said, was shown by the men as well as officers.

Several attempts by Ethiopian forces to cross the Eritrean frontier have been repulsed, the advices stated, notably a counter-attack at Omager "attempted under cover of darkness." The failure of that drive was officially announced here yesterday.

The Eritrean army, which in four days has made a rapid advance with much action, today engaged in road-building and scouting. Everything is being done, officials said, for its next advance.

Military information, such as the army's objectives, is withheld, but Asmara headquarters reported that aviators had thoroughly surveyed the country southward to the Makale area, which indicated that the drive will be in that direction.

CORSICANA, TEX., OCT. 11, 1935

GRADUAL RELIEF HALT

The aproaching federal withdrawal from direct relief is alarming many people. They fear that complete abandonment by the government by Nov. 1 would be premature. Newton D. Baker, former war secretary, attending the "Mobilization for Human Needs" at Washington, insisted that such action must be gradual enough to avoid putting a great burden too suddenly on private philanthropy.

Through public philanthropy on the part of local, state and federal governments, in a time of crisis, a great social disaster has been averted. It is now desirable to retire from this undertaking as rapidly as possible, lest public treasuries be ruined and popular morale corrupted by too long-continued charity. The federal government especially must retire, because of the vast responsibilties it assumed when states and local communities were unable to care for themselves. But too sudden relinquishment of the burden, by any of these public agencies, would bring new tragedy.

It is a situation calling for wisdom among all the agencies concerned, and for the utmost liberality on the part of private employers and philanthropists. The only real remedy for the situation is jobs — not mere "made-work" jobs, but genuinely productive jobs in private enterprise, profitable to both employer and employee. Every citizen who provides such a job this fall and winter is performing a patriotic public service.

JOHN BULL'S BIG STICK

The most significant fact in the international news lately has been the demonstration of the power of Great Britain. Anyone who supposed that John Bull had one foot in the grave and his empire was falling to pieces had a sudden awakening. At the moment when it looked as if a new Caesar was knocking the keystone out of the imperial British arch, to use in rebuilding the old Roman Empire, the ruling statesmen in London took hold and struck.

They mobilized in the Mediterranean a fleet powerful enough to blow Italy out of the water—a fleet compared with which the conquerors of the Spanish Armada and Trafalgar were children's toys on a park pond. They swung powerful armies to the defense of Egypt and the Soudan. They took hold of the supposedly neutral Suez Canal, controlling Italy's sea route to Abyssinia. They assumed leadership at Geneva and lined up the League of Nations against Italy. They reached out a thousand hands to tighten the world's purse strings and shut off Italian war supplies. They showed Great Britain and her Domeinions, after all their pacifist talk, as ready ever to fight for their ...eatened interests.

...early all of this, it may ...marked, was done not ... in defense of British ...ut as a magnificent ... world peace. It ... Anglo-Saxons must give a ... for a practi... case, how... motives ...he same ... inter... erests ...ed ...w

GROWN UP

Once upon a time the fairies used to play
Down among the daisies every lovely summer's day,
But Miss Janet's at my shoulder now, so very tall she's grown,
And the daisies in the garden now are dwelling there alone.

Once upon a time We'd go walking hand in hand
Where the stalwart tiger lilies marked the gate to fairyland,
But Miss Janet's step is stately and there's wisdom 'neath her brow,
And the stalwart tiger lilies are but garden blossoms now.

One upon a time out adventuring we'd go.
There were palaces with turrets in the shrubbery below,
But Miss Janet now is wearing gown that fall below her knees,
And there's nothing in the garden but blossoms and the bees.

When bees were first brought to this country the Indians called them "white men's flies."

MASCULISM IN OKLAHOMA.

In Oklahoma, apparently, men are still men. Feminism lost a battle in the Sept. 24 election. By a vote of about five to four the state turned down an "office right" amendment that would have enabled women to hold important state offices. Oklahoma is said to be the only state in the Union where that right is still denied.

Now people in other states are jumping onto the old Indian Territory for its lack of gallantry. But perhaps that isn't really the word for it. "Gallantry" in the old sense is found in social systems where political rights are denied, rather than in systems where women are treated as political equals. Very likely a lot of the men who voted against that Oklahoma amendment will explain that they did it to preserve the "womanliness" of their womenfolk.

They needn't have worried. Women in general are less interested in voting and holding office than in being free to do so if they choose.

LANGUAGE HABITS

An anti-bad language drive has been started in the city of San Salvador. Police are ordered to arrest anyone using loud, boisterous, profane or obscene language in public. The effort at correction reveals the evil. Authorities say that wherever two or more persons talk together they "use language that would make walls blush."

Whatever their sins in this regard, the San Salvadoreans are to be commended for their effort to correct them. There are other communities not so far away where profanity is considered "smart" and has become part of the daily speech of otherwise well-bred and educated people. It is a bad habit.

Quite apart from morals, a good-language drive seems urgently needed in many social circles in the United States. By using so much slang and profanity we lose variety of expression and fail to get full value from our rich and beautiful language.

AIR WAYS.

There has been talk for years of deadly rays of one kind and another, usable in warfare to destroy enemies at a distance or put motor cars and airplanes out of commission. Marconi, the famous Italian-American inventor, has announced that he is perfecting a device of this sort which may "change the course of aviation."

It seems hardly possible that motors could be paralyzed by invisible waves at any great distance. If they could, the effect would probably be temporary. Such paralysis would be accomplished by interfering with the electric ignition system. It would naturally lead to the adoption of Diesel motors, which ignite their charges merely by compression. This has already been proved practical for airplanes, though such motors are still rather heavy. The same principle applies naturally to motor trucks, army tanks, and so on.

All German Jews seen in company with "German" girls are now to be arrested. And are the girls to be spanked and sent home?

STABILIZATION TALK

Sir Arthur Salter, British economist, would like to see international agreements on stabilization of currencies. In a recent article in Foreign Affairs, he names the conditions which he believes will have to precede any world-wide re-establishment of a fixed gold standard. They are:

"Solution of major outstanding politcal problems; the settlement of intergovernmental debts; a return to a responsible degree of freedom in the movement of goods, in foreign exchange markets and in the movement of capital; balanced budgets; maintenance of healthy conditions in the domestic money and capital markets."

That is discouraging. There are few governments in the world today with balanced budgets. Major political problems look far from solution. More and more voices are raised stating the need of "freedom in the movement of goods," but no country appears ready to take the lead in removing tariff and quota restrictions and other bars to trade.

It will take years, no doubt, to achieve these goals. Yet the frequent mention lately of the world's need of stabilization and of revived trade suggests that psychologically we are about ready to make a start The statesman or nation with the courage to take the initiative may set the whole procession moving forward.

YOUTHFUL PUBLIC SPEAKERS

Something unusual in American college enthusiasm is that public speaking course at Yale which the faculty dropped as an economy measure and students have restored at their own expense.

The Yale News, undergraduate publication, took the matter up with the professor. The latter agreed to give his time free. The class will meet in one of the fraternity houses. The News agreed to furnish the professor and his assistant with transportation to and from class. It will also pay incidental expenses, such as mimeographing, and will pay the fraternity for use of its house. Enrollment is expected to reach 175.

Formation of the Political Union and the Social Problem Clubs is said to have led directly to resumption of the public speaking course. It looks as if Yale undergraduates were taking public affairs seriously and planning to participate in them after graduation.

Now that Sir James Jeans informs us the universe is 10,000,000,000,000 years old, we wish he'd go ahead and tell us what things were like 10,000,000,000,000 years ago.

Quintuplets, by the way, seem to be the only product of which, the more there are, the more valuable they get.

army and, bringing their Italian arms, were expected to arrive at Makale later in the day although Italian airplanes were pursuing them.

The Italian infantry was reported advancing in the Webbe and Shibeli region.

Reinforcements of 50,000 modernly equipped troops under Ras Guetatcho, governor-general of Kaffa province, were marching toward Addis Ababa to wall off the capital from Italian attack.

Dedjazmatch Apte Mariam, another provincial governor who wears half-moon earrings as a sign of his prowess as a soldier and elephant hunter, is on his way here with 20,000 more troops.

Dedjazmatch Mechacha of Kambata province arrived with 15,000 and encamped.

Additional Reinforcements 4

Makonnen Demissi, the governor of Wallega province and a relative of the emperor, is coming to the capital with 40,000 more troops.

Other armies are on their way from different parts of the empire.

The emperor pledged his entire fortune in foreign banks, including a huge sum left by his father for the defense of the empire.

Cornelius Van H. Enoert, the United States charge d'affairs, ordered a pombproof shelter built under the American legation. The French legation is employing workmen day and night to construct bombproof shelters there.

The emperor's action on requesting the Italian envoy to leave immediately was regarded by many as a technical victory for Premier Mussolini who, instead of recalling Vinci himself, forced the emperior to give the diplomat his passports.

Would Like To Remain.

Vinci told the Ethopian government he was willing for his dozen aides to leave Ethiopia immediately but that he personally would like to remain in Addis Ababa until the two consular agents from Magalo arrive, probably Sunday.

The Italian ministers' ouster terminates 50 years' effort on the part of Italy to win a predominant diplomatic position in Ethiopia over Great Britain and France and also ends at least temporarily, the Italian commercial, industrial, and benevolent enterprises in Ethiopia.

Except for France, which controls the Franco-Ethopian railroad, Italy has far more capital invested here than any other country.

Much concern is felt for the 50 Roman Catholi missionaries from Italy who are in the interior of the empire and refuse to leave exept upon the express orders of the pope.

The king of kings asked that other Italian legation officials depart with the minister. The legation, he declared, had kept its radio communications in use after being requested to desist.

The Ethiopian government's only telephone line to the north was cut off, but officials said their forces had been ordered to withdraw with the precious relics of Aksum before the Italian army advanced and that the holy city was left open to occupation.

Officials said information they received before communications from the north were cut indicated that the Italian artillery at Aksum had spared the strange monolithic obelisks which rise ilke headstones to the past.

The town was centuries old when Rome was founded.

Ethiopian legend has it that Menelik, said to be the son of the Queen of Sheba and King Solomon, fled to Aksum in the long distant past, carrying the ten commandments there from Jerusalem.

There, too, legend relates, he brought the ark of the covenant.

The guardian monks of Aksum's celebrated monuments fled before the Italian invasion, uttering imprecations against any who might disturb the so-called ark of the covenant and the commandments.

The obelisks dotting both sides of the Aksum valley and the road leading to the sacred mountains once served as sacrificial altars.

A leter from Emperor Haile Selassie requested politely the Italian minister's departure on the grounds that his presence was embarrassing, especially since the League of Nations Council ruled Italy was the aggressor.

In reply, Vinci-Gigliucci said he would inform the king of kings later concerning the question of leaving and protested against the insinuation that he had employed his radio after being requested to refrain, insisting he had used only the Ethiopian wireless.

Italy Seeks Successor.

The minister told the Associated Press:

"I do not know who will take over the Italian interests since both France and Belgium apparently are disqualified because they voted affirmatively on the council's resolution, declaring Italy an aggressor and supporting application of sanctions.

"In any event, the normal diplomatic course is for Rome to ask a neutral country to take over the interests. In that case, the only apparent eligibles are the United States, Germany and Japan."

The minister said he would not depart before the arrival of two more Italian consular agents from Magalo, who were recalled from the interior and were due here Sunday.

Vinci-Gigliucca said the value of Italian property in Ethopia both official and private, totaled hundreds of millions of lire. It includes the legation, consulates, radio stations, hospitals, missions, schools and an interest in the railroad, gold mines and extensive wood cutting concessions.

Departure Is Delayed.

After receiving the request to leave, Vinvi-Gigliucci conferred with the Belgian minister, dean of the diplomatic corps, and informed him of Haile Selassie's decision.

The Italian minister went then to the palace and handed the emperor his reply, asking for permission to remain here until the consuls from the interior arrived.

Emperor Haile Selassie informed the United States that Ethiopia adheres loyally to the Washington treaty of 1922 between America, Great Britain, Italy and Japan, outlawing poison gas.

The observance of this treaty was open to other nations as well as the signatories.

With the communications lines to the northern front either broken down or destroyed, runners were pressed into action to bring dispatches from the front.

These unshod news boys, who enjoy official status as the "Emperor's postmen" can cover as much as 30 miles a day, and are entitled to demand every assistance from Haile Selassie's subjects to help them complete their journeys swiftly.

Italian Troops May Move Against Harar

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.)

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES ON THE NORTHERN ETHIOPIAN FRONT, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Italian forces may move to take possession of the city of Harar, it was indicated today, to force Ethiopia to relinquish all of Tigre Province.

The province is now partly occupied by the fascist northern army. Action to gain the city would come from Somaliland.

The city, about 75 miles from the British Somaliland border, is the key point of the fertile region.

"When we have Ethiopia, there never will be another Italian who needs to emigrate to America," General Ruggero Santini, commander of the left column which captured Adigrat, told this correspondent.

Pointing over the rich valley surrounding Adigrat, he declared:

"Beyond is a region still more fertile. Italy will never have to buy grain, cotton or coffee from abroad."

The name of the captured city, "Adigrat," means "cultivated fields." The territory resembles that of West Virginia, with broken terrain and fertile valleys.

The Italians now control a region in northern Ethiopia as large as the states of Rhode Island and Delaware combined.

Many Reported Dead Result Air Raids

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An official communique announced today that an Italian airplane crashed at Garaalta, on the northern front, and that two occupants were killed and two dying.

The communique said nine Italian planes bombed Gorahei, near Gerlogubi, on the southern front, and the Ethiopian posts of Taffarikatama and Jalimo, not marked on maps, and that many were killed.

The announcement said 1,000 native Eritrean soldiers who deserted from Italy's northern army were expected to arrive at Makale later today, bearing Italian arms.

Italian airmen were pursuing the deserters and turning machine guns on them, the communique said, but the Eritreans were hiding in the mountains.

Italian infantry was said to be advancing in the Webbe and Shibeli region.

If the Italian forces attempted to take Addis Ababa, they would encounter formidable forces of the emperor's fiercest warriors from the southwest, it was announced. A number of Haile Selassie's most trusted generals are marching to the capital.

Fifty thousand modernly equipped troops under Ras Guetatcho, former minister and governor general of Kaffa province were moving toward Addis Ababa, promising a stubborn defense against any Italian air attack on the capital.

ITALIAN GENERAL HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ETHIOPIA, Oct. 10.—(AP)—(Exchange Telegraph)—It was announced today that the Ethiopians have lost 2,500 dead in the last eight days while the Italian losses were placed at two officers killed and 100 officers and men wounded.

The Italian announcement also said 600 Ethiopians have been made prisoners since the Italian push into Ethiopia began.

Ethiopians Attack Italians Savagely

PARIS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A savage series of attacks by spear-bearing warriors on the northern Ethiopia front, in which many Italians were reported wounded and large numbers of Ethiopians killed, is described in dispatches to the Paris Soir.

Fighting is general throughout the sector, the newspaper was advised by its correspondent, with 300,000 troops engaged in a quadrangle formed by Adi Kaie, in Eritrea, and Adigrat and Aksum, in Ethiopia.

The picked troops of the Ethiopian chief on the northern front, Ras Seyoum, were pushed at the invading Italians in a spectacular cavalry, machine gun and howling spear-bearer attack, said the account. The Italians not only suffered heavy losses but were forced to retreat.

For the most part, however, the invaders held their ground, the newspaper's correspondent said.

The sudden offensive was reported to have been planned after the army of the Ethiopian commander had made a strategic retreat from Aduwa.

The battle yesterday was reported to have raged all day around the salients of Modiurgi, Adi Kaie, Adigrat and Aksum.

MUCH INTEREST WAS SHOWN IN MORTGAGE CLINIC HELD HERE

Considerable interest was manifested by citizens of Corsicana, Blooming Grove and Kerens in the "mortgage clinic" held Tuesday and Wednesday in the Corsicana federal building, representatives of the Northeastern District of the Federal Housing Administration reported when their stay was completed.

Messrs Hubert McPeak and Frank Bell, Jr., conducted the clinic and said that special interest was shown in the plan for building of new homes, and for the readjustment of the financing of existing homes.

A. A. Allison, chairman of the Navarro county Federal Housing Administration unit, announced Thursday that Mr. McPeak had promised to return to Corsicana within the next two weeks to work out a definite program of activities with the lumber dealers, real estate agencies, and lending institutions.

SHOWERS AND HEAVY ELECTRICAL DISPLAY ALL WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Heavy showers, accompanied by considerable lightning, fell at intervals throughout Wednesday night in Corsicana and Navarro county. No damage had been reported at noon Thursday from the lightning.

All farm work was stopped by the rain which amounted to .80 of an inch here according to the government guage. Cotton picking will be delayed the remainder of the week and longer if the rains continue.

Heavy clouds continued the threat of rain Thursday morning but at noon very little more rain had fallen.

There was only a slight drop in the temperature Thursday morning at compared with Wednesday morning. The readings were 72 and 74 respectively.

of the first railroad car were torn off.

The train, continuing in motion, caught the car on the rear steps. When the train stopped, the roadster was wedged between it and a post. The car's engine was smashed; the left side was a mass of wrinkled steel.

Telegrams were sent to the President and to Mrs. Roosevelt assuring them both sons were unhurt.

Both brothers said they were going about 15 to 20 miles an hour when the accident occurred and witnesses corroborated their statements.

shortly after the opinion was rendered. Hauptmann reiterated he was innocent and held to his belief, Fisher said, that "some court will find that out before it is too late."

Apeal Ground Work.

Ebbert Rosecrans, only member of defense counsel qualified to appear before the nation's highest court, laid the ground-work for the proposed appeal in arguing before the court of errors and appeals that Hauptmann's constitutional rights under the fourteenth amendment were violated during his trial at Flemington.

The court overruled this contention in the same way it threw out all other defense arguments for a reversal when it handed down its unanimous decision.

Rosecrans declined to comment before studying the opinion, but Fisher said he told Hauptmann that "instead of the end, this is just the beginning of the battle."

There was a possibility, however, that the appeal to the supreme court might be handicapped by lack of funds. Fisher said the action would have to be financed by public subscription, the method used to obtain funds for the futile appeal in the state court.

Defense Fund Exhausted.

He disclosed that the defense fund—reported to have once totaled between $20,000 and $35,000 is virtually exhausted.

It was believed the defense would renew its efforts to obtain release of Hauptmann's biography, written in the death house, as one means of getting money. The prison board of managers, which must approve such writings, still has the matter under consideration.

Appeal to the supreme court is one of three doubtful avenues of escape for the still stoical Hauptmann.

He also may submit a petition for clemency to the court of pardons, composed of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, Chancellor Luther A. Campbell and the six lay judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, or his attorneys may ask a new trial on the basis of new and important evidence.

Cost of Case To Date.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Lindbergh kidnaping investigation and the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann cost New Jersey $162,713.94, but the cost to all investigating agencies probably more than exceeded $1,000,000.

tion, a major division in the work relief set-up, today postponed until next week its announcement of the number of men at work at present.

The progress report had been expected today, but it was explained that during the absence of Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, the tabulations would be made bi-weekly instead of weekly.

Absence of an official total left the status of the drive in doubt.

The last total, a week ago, was 1,126,234, which left more than 2,000,000 jobs to be provided even to meet Hopkins' 90 per cent goal.

matter what the decision, an appeal will be carried to the United States supreme court.

Other Suits Filed.

The PWA legal counsel, meanwhile, received notice of suits filed by the Texas Power and light Company against the municipalities of Sulphur Springs, Texas, and Plano, Texas, seeking to restrain them from receiving PWA loans and grants. The counsel said the suits involved in the implication that the PWA had "enticed" the cities away from the power companies now serving them and expressed concern lest "alienation of affections" be charged in an equity case.

PWA officials pointed out they had done nothing more than submit an offer to many communities over the country whereby they could obtain funds more easily than customary and could erect municipal plants which might improve power and water at lower rates than those charged by private utilities companies.

ADMINISTRATION OF OIL CONSERVATION BE AIRED SOME MORE

HOUSE ADOPTS RESOLUTION PROVIDING COMMITTEE ADDITIONAL FUNDS

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The house adopted a resolution today appropriating $10,000 to continue investigation of the Railroad Commission's administration of oil conservation laws. A special committee was ordered to complete hearings before next April 1.

The house debated the resolution two hours while the senate, after lengthy parliamentary maneuvering, started considering a house chain store tax bill. The senate state affairs committee cleared the jam around liquor legislation by reporting favorably a house bill to limit sale in unbroken packages.

The special oil committee was alternately criticized for purported failure to investigate operations of major producers and lauded as an instrument through which hot oil has been reduced to a minimum.

The house directed that state officials under investigation be permitted to appear with counsel, to cross examine witnesses and summon rebuttal witnesses.

An effort to make all hearings public was defeated.

Rep. Morris Roberts of Pettus asserted the indirect results of the investigation were "highly desirable" and that it served to keep illegal elements in check while Rep. J. Manley Head of Stephenville said the greatest beneficiaries were hotels, cafes and transportation companies used by the commitete.

Head proposed to give the group $25,000 for a thorough investigation, saying he "didn't want any excuse for not getting to the bottom of the whole thing, majors included."

The April 1 limit was proposed to prevent the committee from continuing its activities during next year's political campaigns.

Another Special Session Predicted

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Texas legislature today faced the prospect of another special session immediately to establish a system of old age pensions and provide revenues. The current meeting will end next Tuesday.

Legislative leaders sought to clear the way for a liquor legislation and a bill to place county and district officers on salaries in response to a plea by Governor Allred for prompt action on the people's business. The governor, in a special message, said he would feel justified in calling another session for pensions at once if liquor, salaries and a chain store tax were passed.

Lieut.-Gov. Waler Woodul ruled out of order an amendment to the senate's pension bill proposing a three per cent sales tax, sustaining a contention the tax provisions would alter the purpose of the bill as reported by the committee.

As the senate opened pension debate, Senator Roy Sanderford of Belton advocated the tax in a substitute for the committee's draft of his original bill, from which the sales tax was stricken out.

Liquor Bill Sent Senate.

Within a few minutes of the governor's message the house sent the senate a liquor control bill prohibiting sale of distilled spirits by the drink and providing for sale in unbroken packages by licensed dealers. Wet leaders lost by 10 votes a last effort to permit sale by the drink under local option and joined in speeding the bill to final passage.

The house bill would vest liquor administration in a board of three to be appointed by the governor.

House action clarified the liquor legislation situation, the senate previously having passed a separate bill prohibiting sale in broken packages. The definitions in the senate bill were incorporated in the house proposal.

The chain store tax, passed by the house, occupied a favorable position for prompt action in the senate.

Consider Salary Bill.

The house began consideration of a salary bill after defeat of an attempt to give a pension bill right of way. Speaker Coke Stevenson said it was evident no tax bills to pay pensions could be passed at this session and threw his weight behind the movement to pass legislation in accordance with the governor's views.

"The legislature simply must get something done during this session," Governor Allred stated. "The liquor traffic is at present totally unregulated. The state is losing tremendous revenues. There is no semblance of an orderly handling of the liquor traffic.

"All of us, both wets and drys, must concede that it will be nothing short of deplorable if this condition continues beyond the end of the session."

The governor pointed out that unless the salary bill was passed officers would be without compensation after Jan. 1. He recommended night sessions to complete prime legislation.

Seventeen Additional Bills Were Submitted

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Governor Allred today submitted seventeen bills, mostly local, to the legislature.

He strongly recommended one appropriating $50,000 for the state parks board to purchase materials for use in state parks and provide employment for thousands of young men and women.

"The federal government has allocated over $2,000,000 to be expended through the state director of the National Youth Movement," Gov. Allred said. "This ...oor will be used entirely in the ...te park system, the only re... ...ement from the state being ... we furnish not exceeding ...0 for purchase of material ... improvement in these parks. ... expenditure of these fed... ...ds will result in perman... ...ovement of our parks, ...ays and our schools."

... Johnson, state dire... ...e project would give ... to 41,038 men and women for nine months at a cost to the federal government of $2,501,760. He estimated there were approximately 120,000 from 16 to 25 years old in Texas without means of support.

Other Bills.

Other bills submitted included:

Authorizing directors of the Colorado Valley Authority to draw compensation for each day consumed in discharge of their official duties.

Authorizing the state highway department to use federal funds for the improvement of lateral roads.

Authorizing the Ralls Independent School district to receive rural aid.

Corresting a previous appropriation bill to provide salaries for guards and the manager of the central prison farm.

Correcting appropriations made during the regular session for the livestock Sanitary commission.

Appropriating money to care for deficiency certificates issued to the West Texas State Teachers College.

Creating a special road district for Lamb county.

Authorizing a public works eminent domain law.

Creating the Gaudalupe conservation district.

Creating the Pease River flood control district.

ESTIMATED THAT BETWEEN TWO AND THREE MILLIONS JOBLESS TO ALWAYS BE WITHOUT WORK

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, estimated today that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 of America's jobless will never find work agian in private industry, but said he had no fear of a "permanent army of unemployed."

The United States, he said, has always suffered from a "shocking shortage" of educational, recreational and health facilities.

The work creating and maintaining these facilities will eventually absorb the unemployed, he said, but he contended it would be done by the government and not by private industry.

Lubin's views were expressed in an interview in which he analyzed the unemployment problem, and frankly conceded it would be several years before the great bulk of the jobless could find work.

He pictured the employment outlook in manufacturing industries as much brighter than some other lines. Less than 2,000,000 are still unemployed in those industries, he estimated, and they can be absorbed. There is no reason to consider, he said, that 1929 industrial production as the peak.

"It is silly to think that the nation's consuming capacity stops at the 1929 level," he said. "There is no reason why it can't go beyond that."

But the great bulk of the unemployed, Lubin explained, were formerly in the wholesale and retail trades, the railroads, telephone and telegram, agriculture, professional services, construction and domestic service.

Some of these, such as the million and a half jobless in the construction industry and the 1,000,000 unemployed in domestic service, will eventually find work again, he said, but it will be a slow process. Demands for this kind of work will return to normal only after others are back on the job.

CITY OFFICIALS OF GALVESTON-HOUSTON OFFER ASSISTANCE

EFFORTS BEING MADE KEEP TEXAS GULF PORTS OPEN TO SHIPPING

GALVESTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Only a "miracle" can prevent the strike of 5,000 longshoremen at Texas ports and Lake Charles, La., tomorrow at 8 a. m., M. J. Dwyer, district president of the International Longshoremen Association, said today.

Dwyer gave his terse announcement immediately preceding a conference with Mayor Adrain F. Levy "to work out plans for the ports' welfare."

Both Dwyer and the shipping interests admitted the strike appeared certain. The Norwegian steamer, William Blumer, under a New Orleans boycott, continued the work of unloading grain with non-union men.

Mayor Adrian F. Levy of Galveston appealed to a group of citizens to form a committee to offer its services to the union and the employers for settling the strike if possible or, if the strike goes into effect, to bring the two sides together so that the port would remain open.

Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe of Houston, the council of that city and the port commission had made a similar move in a conference at Houston.

"The position of the city should be that of providing adequate police protection and personally I am going to see that the port stays open," Mayor Holcombe said.

Spokesmen for steamship operators said they had made their last concession, to the International Longshoremen's Association and Michael J. Dwyer, president of the I. L. A. in the Gulf district, replied that the offer was unacceptable.

The operators had offered to meet demands of a wage increase, but dock workers said they would strike until the steamship men entered into an agreement with the I. L. A. at New Orleans and consented to include Lake Charles in the new contract.

Texas operators insisted that they had no power to force operators at New Orleans to contract with the union.

A fifth ship was caught in the boycott of vessels to or from East Gulf ports when the Japanese motorship Kirishime Maru arrived at Corpus Christi. The I. L. A. refused to handle the vessel, and she lay idle. The Italian steamer Montstella also was idle at Corpus Christi.

HOSPITALIZATION FOR TUBERCULARS CONSTITUTIONAL

AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A possible avenue by which the state could extend direct treasury relief to indigents opened today with a ruling by the attorney general to the house holding constitutional a bill to appropriate funds to hospitalize penniless tuberculars.

The opinion stated the bill did not violate constitutional inhibitions against appropriations for private uses and limiting tax collections for public purposes only.

Some members believed that under the ruling the legislature could appropriate general revenue funds for relief. State funds derived from a constitutional bond issue will be exhausted in, December and officials have sought a relief plan pending resumption of employment through public works.

"It is our opinion the constitutional prohibition against appropriation of public money for private purposes would not apply when made by the legislature to carry out a governmental duty and function," the opinion stated, adding the legislature could define a governmental function.

The house ordered printed on minority report an old-age pension bill carrying a six cents per barrel tax on oil, but action at this session was improbable.

A resolution to appoint a committee of three to examine financial agreements made by Centennial directors to protect the state's appropriation was referred to the state affairs committee. The committee would work with the board of control in inspecting lease, rental and concession contracts.

The house concurred in senate amendments to a bill validating remission of state general revenue taxes in Hidalgo county to finance flood protection and passed a senate bill authorizing the highway department to use state funds to prepare plans for lateral roads to be constructed from federal appropriations.

The senate passed a house bill appropriating an additional $50,000 for session expenses.

ETHIOPIANS REPORT SUCCESSFUL ACTIONS AGAINST INVADERS

CAPTURE OF NUMBER ITALIAN OFFICERS REPORTED IN ENGAGEMENTS

By JAMES A. MILLS
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian commander on the Northern front, reported early success today in maneuvers of three Ethiopian forces against the Italian right flank, claiming capture of an Italian colonel and 30 other officers.

The Ethiopian government flatly denied the following reports:

That Ethiopians had invaded Eritrea; that Italians were using poison gas; that Ethiopians had surrounded Aduwa, massacring the Italians; that Edagahamus had been captured; and that the war minister had left.

Another Ethiopian chieftain, Ras Kassa, co-operated in the flank movement with an army 80,000 strong, Ras Seyoum reported, marching toward the Setit River on the border of Italy's colony of Eritrea.

Dedjazmatch Ayelu, with a third force, also was reported moving steadily to the north.

This capital however, after a night during which it was plunged into deepest darkness as a precaution against feared Italian air raids, received in reports from the three battle fronts only a blurred impression of the general situation.

One report from the Southern front, near the border of Italian Somililand, said two Italian planes collided while bombing Gerlogubi, in Ogaden province.

No Reports From Center.

There were no immediate fresh reports from the central front, around Mount Mussa Ali, in the corner formed by the boundaries of Ethiopia, Eritrea and French Somaliland.

Observers considered it not impossible that harrying of the Fascist forces on the northern front around Aduwa had begun. Ethiopians believed the Italians would halt their advance until their presnet position was consolidated and their communications made secure.

Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, the Italian minister, bade farewell to his friends today and hurriedly began the packing of his luggage in preparation for departure.

Denied Radio Used.

He denied the Ethiopian government's charge that he had used the legation radio to transmit information to Rome after the Ethiopian government had asked him not to use the set.

In a note to the League of Nations the government said the minister had used the radio for the furtherance of espionage centering at the legation.

Authorittaive sources said it was probable that Emperor Haile Selassie would give the minister a letter today, requesting him to leave immediately.

Haile Selassie's action was believed to be following the receipt of a telegram from the Ethiopian delegation in Geneva, in which it was said that the empire's case before the League would not be compromised if the envoy were given his passport.

Ethiopian Diplomats Recalled.

On the diplomatic front, Emperor Haile Selassie ordered his charge d'affairs at Rome, Negrades Yesus, to ask for his passport. He also ordered the Ethiopian consul at Asmara, Eritrea, to withdraw, and urged all Ethiopians in Eritrea to exacuate the Italian colony.

The King of Kings was represented by his associates as believing that League of Nations sanctions—besides the morale of his own armies and his empire's mountain citadels through which no invader has ever penetrated—eventually would end the Italian campaign.

He also was encouraged by the powerful concentration of British forces in the Mediterranean, around the Suez canal and in the gulf of Aden, all of which he believed must inevitably put a halt to the invasion of his domain.

A general belief persisted in Ethiopian ciricles that Great Britain already was aiding Ethiopia with secret supplies of armaments through British Somaliland and the Sudan.

ROME, Oct. 9.—(AP)—It was a "quiet day" for Mussolini's army in Eritrea, an official communique said today, describing the seventh day of East African operations.

Only "small patrol actions" occurred along the front, where the main concern was to strengthen thoroughly all positions against counter attacks and to improve communications for the next advance, the communique said.

Aviators scouting beyond the occupied territory in Northern Ethiopia reported that the found no large concentration of enemy forces.

Heavy Ethiopian losses were reported in a hot encounter between Italian native forces and Ethiopian warriors at Amba-Scebat, just before the capture Sunday of Aduwa.

Harlem Negro Called To Aid of Selassie

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Colonel Hubert Julian, the "black eagle of Harlem" rode on a foaming mule into this capital today from nearby Ambo.

Arriving breathlessly at the imperial palace, the irrepressible West Indian negro shouted to bystanders, "The Emperor telegraphed me to rush back to Addis Ababa. What's the matter?"

"The war is on, Aduwa has fallen," the spectators answered, whereupon Julian, wearing the uniform of a colonel in the Ethiopian infantry, exclaimed that he had been riding for 31 hours without rest and had not known of the war.

"If the emperor wishes, I start immediately to Aduwa to help recapture the city," he proclaimed. "I know how to fight the Italians. I knew many of them in Harlem."

With that he darted into the palace gate, strode past the cages of Haile Selassie's lions and reported to the emperor.

Julian, thought claiming. 17 years of aviation experience, now serves as commandant of a provincial army camp at Ambo, where he says he is training 10,000 infantrymen.

TASTE BOOM-TIME FEVER IN MARKETS ADVANCES PRICES

BUYING SPASM AT OPENING FOLLOWING WARNING GAY LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—In one of the most impressive rallies of several weeks, stocks bounded upward today for gains of 1 to 3 or more points.

A touch of inflationary psychology, combined with a better brand of business news and the apparent lessening of war tension in the financial district, helped the recovery. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,750,000 shares.

By VICTOR EUBANK,
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The stock market had a touch of boom-time fever today as prices were whirled up 1 ot 2 or more points over a broad front.

The buying spasm occurred shortly after the opening and was attributed partly to the speech last night of President Charles R. Gay of the New York Stock Exchange in which he warned of the possibility of drastic inflation.

For a few minutes the ticker tape dropped behind floor transactions. Then the demand lulled, but the majority of the leaders held around their tops.

The European situation and the African war seemingly were neutral market influences although they were being watched closely. Wheat helped a little by rallying a cent or more a bushel. Cotton was a bit backward. Rail bonds improved, but U. S. government securities sagged. Foreign exchanges were quiet.

Reach New High.

Shares of Chrysler, and several others, reached new highs for the year or longer. Among the more active gainers were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors, American Can, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Case, Du Pont, Congoleum, Budd Mfg., Consolidated Gas, Great Northern, Santa Fe, Schenley, American Commercial Alcohol, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery-Ward.

Market anlaysts were inclined to concur with Mr. Gay's thesis that the principal basis for inflation lies in the huge excess reserves of the banks.

While it was not overlooked that the exchange official had pointed out he was not predicting that stock prices would become inflated, especial attention was paid to his statement that "we should not close our eyes to the inflammability of the material we are dealing with and to the fact that inflation, if it should once get started, might sweep through the markets as a fire sweeps through a city of wooden houses."

MILITARY FUNERAL PLANNED TODAY FOR GEN. J. F. WOLTERS

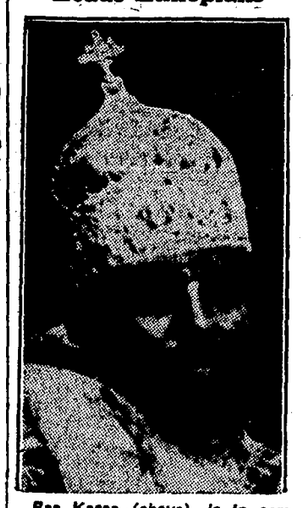

HOUSTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Funeral services with military honors for Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, former commander of the 56th Cavalry Brigade of the Texas National Guard, were set here for 3 p. m. today.

Selected by the family of the distinguished Texan to officiate at the services were Dr. James P. DeWolfe, rector of Christ Church; the Right Rev. Clinton S. Quin, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas, and the Rev. James S. Allen, former rector of Christ Church.

Capt. Grover C. Goodrich, comrade in arms of the late general, was in command of the squad of non-commissioned officers detailed to conduct the military ceremonies.

At the time of his death Tuesday at Austin, General Wolters was counsel and legislative representatives of the Texas Company, a position he had held since 1930.

NAVAL BLOCKADE TO MEAN WAR SAYS ITALY'S SPOKESMAN

STILL WONDERS WHY WORLD CANNOT SEE NATION'S NEED OF TERRITORY

GENEVA, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An Italian spokesman told the Associated Press today any naval blockade against Italy means war.

The spokesman said the Italian delegation probably would leave Geneva tomorrow, although still awaiting orders.

Discussing the possibility that an ineffective economic boycott might lead to a blockade to make sanctions really effective, he said the Italian people do not fear economic sanctions because Italy counts on getting its necessities from Germany through Austria. He added oil can be obtained "from some other nation" which can send it to Italy through Germany.

Italians are enraged as well as depressed over the assembly's overwhelming condemnation of Italy, the spokesman said.

"Why will the world not recognize Italy is stifling unto death and needs to find an outlet?" he asked. "Why doesn't it realize it must remove the causes of war and give Italy some great open spaces where Italians may breathe?"

CARE OF YOUR HAIR

SCALP TREATMENT

Take Miss Forbes' advice today about caring for the scalp and see how your hair will improve in lustre, in color, length and thickness. Begin today.

E. K. Forbes

You will want your hair to look especially nice these days, when the new season is bringing with it parties and new dresses new ideas in making, yourself look pretty. Your hair may have suffered a bit from a long holiday in the sun, which is bound bleach the hair and is sure to make it a bit dry; although it is excellent in every other way for the health of the scalp. So—what shall you do now?

First and foremost, an oil rub. Get some olive oil from the kitchen; you cannot do better than this. Heat about two tablespoonsful, and put the saucer in which you have the oil, over a bowl containing boiling water, so as to keep it hot. Part the hair, rub the hot oil along the partings. When you have literally soaked the hair in oil, do one of two things. Either stand before an open oven door, with the heat on, so the waves of hot air come out all over your head—or else heat a couple of bath towels, and wrap them around the head. As they cool replace them with fresh hot ones. This heat drives the oil into the scalp. Then have the shampoo immediately, or the next day.

Get yourself a good hair tonic, to use between times—say, two or even three times a week. I would prefer that you wrote to me and asked me for my formula, for I know my tonic is effective, and that is more than I can say for many tonics on the market sold at quite high prices. Use a tonic, and massage the scalp. An electric vibrator is good, as I said the other day, or your own ten fingers will do very well, as long as you stimulate the circulation. Massage of any kind does this, also it tends to make the hair a little oily. But this does not matter, because your hair will need a weekly shampoo in any case. This will make it so glossy and pretty you won't recognize it as the dry and mussed looking hair of the hot summer days.

L. D. R.—Any cream will do as a powder base, as the cream then is only to give a clinging surface to hold the powder. It is only a very dry skin that will ever need to have cream used this way on it.

A. M.—"Acne" is not confined to the face, and often attacks the entire upper part of the body. Yes, diet is to be considered in such cases. The doctor who is caring for the disease, will include that along with other directions for the patient to follow. As the skin is usually so irritated, and often very dry, it is advisable to give it some relief through moderate applications of any fine oil, similar to that of "sweet almond oil." Creams are too heavy, and usually forbidden by the doctor. Yes, "acne" is curable, and the length of time required for making the cure may be shortened if there is proper care of the diet. Proper treatment is also necessary.

H. F.—When your system is cleansed of the trouble, you will buildup again, and weight will be normal. Exercise is not advisable at the present time.

H. M. S.—Your weight of 122 pounds could be considered normal, with height just a trifle below five feet, three inches. Many women now know how to handle their diet so they keep to the same weight they had in their girlhood, which is the advisable course so long as it is becoming. Most persons put on some extra weight after recovering from an operation, and usually this is temporary.

The market sagged off to 10.93 for Dec. and 11.02 for May later in the morning with active months showing net losses of 3 to 6 points. Autobiography Of Hauptmann Been Given Release

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden today released to Bruno Richard Hauptmann's attorneys a 218-page autobiography written by Hauptmann in the death house.

The attorneys for months have sought release of the autobiography to permit its sale to obtain funds to finance Hauptmann's appeals.

The colonel issued the following statement.

"On May 4, 1935, Bruno Richard Hauptmann completed his autobiography and made a request to the principal keeper that his story be released to his wife and counsel.

"The autobiography was translated into English, carefully read by the principal keeper who discussed the possibilities of release with Governor Hoffman, Commissioner Ellis and the prison board of governors.

"It was felt that no permission should be granted for the release of this manuscript while Hauptmann's case was on appeal to the court of errors and appeals. There appeared to be little or no basis for objections to its release following the decision of the court."

expected by informed quarters.

Strong undercover moral pressure was believed being brought against the two nations whose position was variously termed strange, inconsistent, and illogical in authoritative circles.

Officially, the British government takes the position that their action is not especially important and that means will be found to discount it. How this will be done, however, was not explained.

Some talk cropped up in London that Austria and Hungary might be punished and even expelled from the league for their defection from the covenant, but authoritative quarters said that no such action was anticipated, although admittedly there was machinery in the covenant for dealing with such cases.

RENEW INTENSIVE SEARCH FOR LONG MISSING AIRPLANE

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A second body, believed to be that of a second member of the crew of a missing Standard Oil company air liner, was seen this forenoon, lying on the last shore of Stansbury Island, at the southern end of Great Salt Lake.

When an amphibian plane today flew over the spot where its occupants yesterday saw a body lying on the shore of the island, they found it was still there. A body discovered on the island yesterday by a ground party meanwhile had been removed to a Tooele, Utah, undertaking establishment.

Efforts were being made to complete its identification as that of George O. Anderson, mechanic of the missing air liner, last reported approaching the Salt Lake airport early Sunday morning.

The body sighted this forenoon was believed to be clothed to the waist.

The amphibian plane was piloted by O. C. LaeBoutillier of San Francisco.

WAR SITUATION

of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

The dispatches from the armies on the north said the fighting in the last 24 hours has been fierce. A dispatch to the Paris newspaper, Soir, said large numbers of Ethiopians, armed with spears against the modern war machinery of the invaders, were mowed down as the Italians drove forward from Aduwa and Adigrat.

An unconfirmed Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Italian headquarters in the northern sector said the Ethiopians had lost 2,500 dead in the first week of hostilities. The Italian losses were placed at two officers killed and 100 officers and men wounded.

In Washington, Secretary of State Cordell Hull reiterated the warning to Americans to engage in business with belligerents at their own risk.

(By The Associated Press.)

The holy city of Aksum, precious to the legend and religious life of the black empire of Ethiopia, fell today before the onslaught of Premier Benito Mussolini's fascist army while the League of Nations in a tense, electric atmosphere gave final approval to penalties against Italy.

The fall as Aksum was announced by the Italian minister in Addis Ababa.

In the assembly of the League of Nations a silence pregnant with the possibilities of war on a scale many times larger than that in East Africa was like a symbol of the sentiment among a majority of the league members that Italy had started an unprovoked war against the empire of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Discussed in the corridors but not yet brought into the open was a possible plan for establishing a naval blockade against Italy in an effort to bring an end to the bloodshed of Italy's war for a "complete solution" of its problem in Africa.

Italy Claims Be Right.

"Italy is convinced," Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of the fascist delegation, said before a hushed chamber of the league members, "that it is she who is interpreting the true spirit of the league which is synonymous with life, against the letter of the league, which is synonymous with death."

The fall of Aksum, legendary capital of the Queen of Sheba, in the Italian drive from the colony of Eritrea toward the rich interior of Ethiopia, came to the ears of the Italian minister at Addis Ababa. Ethiopian communication with the north was cut off, but officials said their forces had been ordered to withdraw with the precious relics of Aksum before the Italian army advanced.

Obelisks Spared.

Of striking import to the Christian Ethiopian was the fact that Italian artillery had spared the strange, monolithic obelisks which rise like headstones to the past.

Centuries before Rome was founded, Aksum came into being.

As the Italian forces, equipped with the most modern death-dealing devices, burrowed southward through the ranks of Emperor Haile Selassie's black-skinned warriors, armed with spear and religious fanaticsism, General Ruggerro Santini, commandant of the northern army, told the Associated Press:

"When we have Ethiopia, there never will be another Italian who needs to emigrate to America."

His eye was on the rich, fertile hinterland of the black empire, riven now as though by a spear as the left and right wings of the invading Italians strike southward toward Addis Ababa, the capital.

The reports recited that the left wing of the northern army had taken up the advance toward Houzien, a strategic center south of Adigrat and on a line of march into the interior. The right wing is driving on the salient where lies Aksum. Bitter resistance, presumably with heavy losses in men though the dispatches did not recount the casualties, was encountered by the Italians at Edagahamus and Debrascion on the left wing.

No Troops Seen.

In keeping with the orders from Addis Ababa for withdrawal, Rome dispatches said pilots could find no Ethiopian troops massed at Makale or near Aksum.

The situation of the armies at a glance was:

Right wing of the northern army—was moving on Aksum in the last dispatches to Rome, 20 miles southeast of its consolidated position.

Left wing of the northern army—had consolidated its positions at Adigrat and Edagahamus and was pressing toward Hauzien.

Southern army—pushed forward from Italian Somaliland to near Dolo, close to the border.

A hint of the direction of the Italian campaign was contained in information gleaned from northern army field headquarters, where tentative plans called for a drive from Italian Somaliland toward Harrar to force the Ethopians to relinquish all of Tigre province. Harar is 75 miles from the Somaliland border.

Attention was divided between the military drives in Africa and the frock-coated deliberations at Geneva; but if there was a favoring of either, it was in the direction of League of Nations plans for sanctions. Statesmen felt that more than current history was being written in the peaceful Swiss city.

Peaceful Naval Blockade.

A peaceful naval blockade was under consideration. The disinclination of Austria and Hungary, which with Italy refused to vote for sanctions today, to impose penalties upon Italy complicated the league problem. Warning already had been issued of possible catastrophic effects of such sanctions. One major delegation was quoted as saying that a blockade might mean a naval war, and the implications of that statement carried their own weight, inasmuch as such a blockade would be initiated at the instance of the league.

A blockade would cut off the East African forces from the homeland.

In Rome, Italy was represented as hoping that France would find some means of conciliating the situation, but apparently scant hope of avoiding league sanctions existed. In London official circles were reported to believe sanctions would be carried out in spite of the attitude of Austria and Hungary, England was swept by a wave of sympathy for Ethiopia.

In Addis Ababa Emperor Haile Selassie asked the Italian minister to leave immediately and the Ethiopian charge d'affaires in Rome prepared to catch the next boat home. Thus were severed Italo-Ethiopian diplomatic relations.

covenant against aggression should be faithfully applied.

Representatives of 54 nations attended the morning session.

"The league is now faced by its second task," asserted Anthony Eden of England. "Action must be taken. I declare our full willingness to participate in that action."

Laval For Conciliation.

Premier Pierre Laval of France also declared his nation's intention to meet its obligations under the covenant, but pledged himself to pursue at the same time a search for conciliation and a peaceful settlement of the conflict.

Spokesmen for Soviet Russia and other nations also threw their support to league action.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, defending Italy's activities in Ethiopia, protested first against the procedure of letting silence indicate that delegates accepted applications.

He declared it was unfair to accept the policy that "silence meant consent as a method approving the council's condemnation of Italy."

Foreign Minister Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia replied that the steering committee had recommended the silence method.

Silence Gives Consent.

Under it any nation which did not speak in opposition would be considered as acquiescing to sanctions, merely as a matter of convenience.

"There is no obstacle in the way of any delegate who wishes to state his government's position from the rostrum," Benes insisted.

Baron Aloisi delivered an 18-page address in his defense of Italy's East African campaign, declaring:

"Italy is convinced that it is she who is interpreting the true spirit of the League of Nations and who in this particular case is fighting not only her own fight but also that of the League of Nations because she wishes to exalt the spirit of the league, which is synonymous with life, against the letter of the league, which is synonymous with death.

"Italy, I say, has a legitimate pride in indicating surely to the League of Nations the path which will render the league more living and more efficacious. The pathway is marked by two principles.

Aloisi Defends Invasion

"First, put firmly aside the policy of two weights and two measures.

"Second, harmonize the convenant in its entirety; the part which has to do with evolution, with the part which concerns conservation of order—will obtain thus new elacticity which will permit us to follow history and to meet new situations developing at any moment, which, in default of this elasticity, will surely become the source of new conflicts.

"No one is better able than Italy to express this new spirit, its imeprious necessity of lift.

"Finding herself in complete spiritual and material development, feighted down by historical vicissitudes and international restructions as to territorial limitations which stifle her, it is a country which should make heard before the assembly her voice which is that of the great proletariat demanding justice."

Aloisi said with solemnity that he wished to place two questions before the assembly and the conscience of the entire world.

First, he said, Italy had outlined in a detailed memorandum not only its grievances against Ethiopia, but also the juridical and political situation concerning Ethiopia's relation to the league.

"Neither the council nor committees during these last months have taken into account the Italian memorandum," he asserted. "They even have not examined it."

Second, Aloisi said, in a situation so grave that the council was called on to pass pronouncement upon the event which happened after October third, the day hostilities started, the Italian delegation was refused an opportunity to outline reasons for the Italian activities.

Aloisi demanded to know why the league did not take measures authorized by the covenant with respect to Ethiopia, thus inquiring in effect why Ethiopia had not been expelled from the league.

Aloisi said non-recognition of the validity of Italian arguments wounded the conscience of the Italian people and accentuated Ethiopia's aggressive attitude.

Communists Act to End Italian Shipping

MOSCOW, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The executive committee of the communist internationale today published a call to transport workers throughout the world to tie up the shipment of goods to Italy in an effort to force suspension of the war with Ethiopia.

The call said it was necessary to prevent even a single train or steamer from carrying help to Il Duce.

It further appealed to "toilers of all countries" to organize immediately "friendly campaigns" against war "in all enterprises, labor unions, co-operatives, culture and sports organizations, municipalities and parliaments everywhere."

It particularly urged mass meetings as a means of protests.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A belief that legislation should be enacted to discourage the shipment of raw materials to warring nations was expressed today by Senator Pope (D-Idaho), who has just returned from an unofficial survey of conditions abroad.

He contended that such exports, which are not included in the embargo imposed by congress and the President against arms and munitions shipments to Italy and Ethiopia, constitute the major problem in maintaining neutrality.

Steel and copper, oil, coal, cotton and "perhaps wheat" were mentioned by Pope as among the raw materials used extensively by a country at war.

As to wether an absolute ban should be placed against shipment of these commodities to belligerents, he said he was not yet prepared to express an opinion.

GENEVA, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The steering committee of the League of Nations assembly decided today that the sanctions coordination committee would comprise all members of the league except Italy and Ethiopia.

LEGISLATURE

beer, and other occupation taxes on the basis of one-fourth to the school fund and three-fourths to the general fund. DeBerry contended it was void because statutes changed by it were not named.

Senator Holbrook called for approval of the levy as "an additional tax to help distribute the burden," asserting corporeal property "can not absorb any more."

"I have offered," he said, "a method by which the state can get out of serious financial trouble." He said it was a "gross proceeds" levy arising from sales, noting it exempted "necessities of life."

He predicted Governor Allred, who has opposed a general sales tax, "would not disapprove it."

The chain store tax as passed in the house and pending in the senate would impose annual license fees on each store in chains as follows:

One store, $1; two stores, $6; two to five stores, $25; five to 10 stores, $50; 10 to 20 stores, $150; 20 to 35 stores, $250; 35 to 50 stores, $500, and on each store in excess of 50, $750.

Changes authorized by the senate would exempt voluntary chains; oil well supply dealers; utilities paying gross receipts taxes on sales of merchandise; lumber yards selling building materials exclusively; filling stations selling gasoline and petroleum products exclusively; manufacturers, wholesale and retail stores selling its products exclusively; and dairy products processing units.

Sales-Chain Store Taxes Before Senate

AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The double-edged controversy over sales and chain store taxes was squarely before the senate today.

The subject of liquor regulation, which had engrossed the house for many days and the senate intermittently, was shelved, temporarily at least, after marked advance.

The sales tax proposal reached the senate in the form of an amendment to a chain store tax measure, which, with broadened exemptions, was substituted for a bill passed by the house.

Sponsored by Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, the bill proposed a three per cent levy on retail sales, and was pending business.

Under the substitute, voluntary chains, oil well supply dealers, lumber yards, filling stations, dairy processing plants, utilities paying gross receipts taxes and wholesaler and retail outlets of manufacturers used for sale of their own goods would be exempt.

Says Exemptions Necessary.

Senator Clint Small of Amarillo said the exemption of manufacturers retail units was necessary to keep open certain clothing chains selling chiefly to poor people.

Opponents charged the chain stores were reducing people to serfdom, decreasing business standards and creating a situation where there would be "only the extreme rich and the extreme poor."

Wets claimed a tactical advantage from an amendment they added to the Small bill defining the open saloon which was passed by the house, 106 to 27, but drys discounted the claims.

The amendment exempted compounds of grapes, berries, fults, and other products grown in Texas and authorized an alcoholic strength of 17 per cent in liquor sold by the drink.

The senate previously had passed the bill, which defined an open saloon as a place where distilled spirits were sold by the drink.

GREECE

The fiery Kondylis, who won laurels by downing the March revolt led by Eleutherios Venizelos, planned to take the new ministry before the national assembly later today and ask a vote of confidence.

Then striking quickly to bring his royalist aims to accomplishment, the new government leader planned to ask the assembly to rush through legislation junking the republic and recalling George to the throne he abandoned December 18, 1923, to make way for the establishment of the republic.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Athnes correspondent of Reuters reported that General George Kondylis, minister of war and one of the staunchest advocates of the restoration of the Greek monarchy, assumed the leadership of government today after Premier Tsaldaris and his cabinet had resigned.

General Kondylis, Reuters said, called three associates to assist him in the government.

It was stated that Athens was quiet awaiting a meeting of the national assembly which was expected to vote the restoration of former King George to the throne.

The resignation, it was reported by the Exchange Telegraph agnecy, followed a series of rapid events during the morning in connection with a demand for the restoration of the monarchy.

Four army generals visited Premier Tsaldaris and demanded that the monarchy be restored immediately by a degree approved by the national assembly.

While the terview was in progress, soldiers in certain barracks fixed portraits of former King George to the walls, cheered and proclaimed him king.

An extraordinary council of ministers was summoned in the afternoon and Tsaldaris announced his government's resignation.

Government Must File Answer To Processors Suits

DALLAS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Judge William H. Atwell in federal district court here today signed an order giving the federal government until Nov. 1 to file its answers to suits brought by 31 processors of wheat, cotton and hogs in this district against the AAA processing taxes.

The government's appeal from Judge Atwell's decision holding that amendments to the processing tax law by the last congress did not afford a valid remedy at law has been made to the federal circuit court at New Orleans.

KIDNAP TRIAL

attorney, told of her girlhood and school days. Her father-in-law, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., who is on trial with her on a charge of complicity in the $50,000 kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville society belle, here a year ago today, watched her tensely as she testified. Her husband has been wanted for the past year as the kidnaper of Mrs. Stoll.

Mrs. Robinson had been on the witness stand scarcely two minutes before defense counsel brought from her the information concerning Robinson, Jr., having wounded her. She told the jury that at the time she and Robinson, Jr., were married in 1929 she was attending a business school in Nashville.

She said that after their marriage she continued with her studies and that one day she left class early and was seen on the street by her husband. On her return home she related, he questioned her where she had been. She told him she had been at school.

"He seemed to doubt me," she testified," and shot me twice."

Mrs. Robinson indicated that she was shot in the leg just above the knee. She said she did not tell her family the circumstances under which she was shot, but added that they were advised of "the accident."

It was shortly after this episode, she continued, with Robinson, Jr., out of work that the young couple moved to the home of the elder Robinson.

The government was allowed to call Melvin H. Purvis, former G-man, for whom a forthwith subpoena had been issued at the request of the defense, to the stand before Mrs. Robinson testified. Purvis described the arrest of Mrs. Robinson the night of Oct. 16, 1934, when Mrs. Stoll was returned. He said that at Scottsburg, Ind., where the car in which Mrs. Stoll was being returned was intercepted, Mrs. Robinson was taken from the car by federal agents but that she was replaced in it at the request of Mrs. Stoll.

Appeal Of Convicted Kidnaper-Murderer Is Denied By High Court

Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—New Jersey's highest court condemned Bruno Richard Hauptmann today to the electric chair.

By unanimous decision 13 members of the Court of Errors and Appeals upheld the Bronx carpenter's conviction by a Flemington jury last February 13 for the murder of little Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., March 1, 1932.

One by one in a tense courtroom they said "no" to the arguments which Hauptmann's counsel had urged in making their appeal last June 20.

HAUPTMANN STILL MAINTAINS HE IS AN INNOCENT MAN

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's first words after hearing of the ruling of the Court of Errors and Appeals against him today were: "My God, what a fine anniversary present for Anna."

The Hauptmanns will have been married ten years tomorrow.

Lloyd Fisher, chief counsel for the doomed man broke the news to Hauptmann in the death house of the state prison. He had been talking to Bruno before the decision was announced. Guards told him of the ruling on the way out and he immediately went back to tell Hauptmann.

"You have done your best, Lloyd and I know some place some court will right this wrong," Fisher quoted Hauptmann as saying.

"I never did this and surely they will find that out before it is too late," Hauptmann added.

Fisher said he would confer with his associates and appeal to the supreme court of the United States. He said he had no immediate plans concerning his initial step.

To the charge that Attorney General David T. Wilentz had gone far beyond his privilege in excoriating Hauptmann during the final summing up, the high court held that no ground for review was created, especially "in the absence of objection" at the time by Hauptmann counsel.

The court held also that Hauptmann had not been improperly treated in Wilentz's cross-examination "in the absence of objection."

The Hauptmann counsel's contention that the state changed its theory of how the crime was committed between the opening and closing of the trial is no reason for reversing the lower court, the decision stated.

The decision was read by 73-year-old Justice Charles W. Parker.

Duty of Judge.

As to the argument that Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at the Flemington trial, was unfair in his charge, the high court said: "It is always the right, and often the duty, of a trial judge to comment on the evidence and give the jury his impressions of its weight and value."

As to the claim that the evidence was insufficient to prove the commission of a burglary, the court held that the stealing of a child and its night-dress constituted sufficient evidence.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, the wife of the former German army machine gunner, was not present in the packed court room when the decision was read. She learned of the blow to her husband's hope at her New York City apartment.

"All we can do is carry on," she said. "I don't know whit I will do now, but Richard and I will continue to hope in God."

Hauptmann was in the death house at state prison when the court acted.

Three Courses Open.

Three courses, none of them affording any great hope for the prison-pale Bronx carpenter, are now open to his attorneys:

1. An appeal to the board of pardons, which could commute his sentence to life imprisonment. (Such appeals are rarely granted.)

2. An appeal for a new trial on the grounds that new evidence has been discovered since the first trial. (One of Hauptmann's lawyers said recently that such new evidence had been found.)

3. Appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

In taking up point by point the defense arguments, the high court held, among other things, that the admission in evidence of the ladder—vigorously opposed by Hauptmann's counsel at the time—was proper.

Ladder Important.

The ladder was an important part of the state's case against Hauptmann. It was found near the Lindbergh home and was used, the state charged, in the kidnaping. An expert testified that wood that went into its construction came from Hauptmann's home in the Bronx.

The court stated also that the regular presence in court of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was no reason for it to reverse the conviction. It overruled the contention that the trial was a "circus."

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police and the man who directed the search for the kidnaper-killer, commented:

"Justice is served."

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at Baltimore said he had no comment to make on the decision.

Reilly's Comment.

Edward J. Reilly, who directed the Hauptmann defense but who had no part in the appeal, said the decision was probably "judicially correct," but that he still believed Hauptmann was innocent of the murder.

It was planned at the prison to notify Hauptmann of the court's action late today. Throughout all the days of suspense he has maintained the iron calm that impressed court observers during his trial.

No advance indication had been given by the court that the Hauptmann case decision was ready for announcement. The case was No. 99 on the list of 106.

The entire court of 16 members was present this morning, each justice in his black robes, but only 13 participated in the Hauptmann decision. Justice Trenchard, a member of the court, was automatically barred by reason of having sat at the trial. Two other members of the court were not members at the time of the appeal.

Tension in Court.

Presiding was Chancellor Luther A. Campbell, the highest judiciary officer in the state.

About three minutes was the average time devoted to the reading of decisions in the early cases. Shortly before noon the chancellor called:

"No. 99!"

The tension which had been apparent from the beginning increased. Justice Parker began reading the decision.

In view of today's decision, Hauptmann will be re-sentenced to death by Justice Trenchard, possibly within two weeks.

Hauptmann's counsel has three months in which to request a review by the United States supreme court. Such a petition, however, would not automatically stay Hauptmann's execution. A stay of execution would be necessary. It could be granted by the New Jersey courts or by a justice of the United States supreme court.

Constitutionality Of Cigarette Tax Law Was Upheld

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The supreme court today in effect upheld constitutionality of the Texas cigarette tax act in the ex parte case of Sam Kimberlin, cigarette tax enforcement chief in the comptroller's department.

The court denied a writ of habeas corpus for Kimberlin, sentenced by District Judge Sarah T. Hughes in Dallas to three days in jail for contempt for alleged violation of an order restraining interference with the business of the Interstate Tobacco company.

While the court denied the state's contention Judge Hughes was without jurisdiction, it held the lower court ruled erroneously on questions of law and fact.

The court held that when cigarettes were delivered by salesmen to purchasers and the purchase money collected "they ceased to be in interstate commerce and became a proper subject for taxation under the provisions of the cigarette tax law."

Kimberlin assertedly seized in violation of a restraining order cigarettes delivered by salesmen of the company to two purchasers. The company contended the act contravened the Interstate Commerce clause of the federal constitution.

Observing it could not grant the relief sought unless the writ was "absolutely void," the Court said:

"Notwithstanding, however, the district judge was in error in holding that the cigarettes were still in interstate commerce after being delivered to Barrett and Keys, and notwithstanding the fact that the judge erroneously held relator in contempt because he confiscated the cigarettes after being delivered to the purchasers, yet we are of the opinion that the action of the court in this regard was an error of judgment upon the law and facts, and was not absolutely void because of lack of jurisdiction."

Assistants attorney general defending Kimberlin planned an appeal to Judge Hughes from the jail sentence. They interpreted the court's opinion as a "silent instruction" to the trial court to rescind the judgment.

COUNTY PROJECTS ARE APPROVED BY FEDERAL OFFICIALS

FUNDS IN EXCESS $2000,000 ALLOTTED TO COUNTY UP TO PRESENT

Approval of twelve Navarro county projects by federal officials at Washington Wednesday was reported to the Corsicana Daily Sun, Wednesday by the Associated Press, with the information that a total of $127,172 of federal funds had been set aside for these programs. This brings the grand total of approved projects to seventeen for the county, with one unit now under construction, and federal funds in excess of $200,000.

Included in Wednesday's approvals were eight county projects, and four drainage projects inside the Corsicana city limits. County projects called for a total of $75,948 in federal funds, while the city projects entailed federal expenditures of $51,224. Sponsors' contributions are yet to be added to secure the total expenditures entailed.

While the news of the approvals were being received, County Engineer A. F. Mitchell and his aides were analyzing the flaws in eight projects returned for correction by the examiners in Administrator Wade Smith's office at district headquarters of the Works Progress Administration at Palestine, preparators to attempting the revisions necessary before the projects can be sumbitted to Washington for final approval.

Local officials pointed out that lateral road projects included in the list of approvals Wednesday were sumbitted under the same general rules and regulations which had governed the preparations of the latest proposals which had been returned by district officials.

No further information was available Wednesday as to when the actual work could be started on the projects, since federal approval of the Lake Halbert dam repairs were reported from Washington more than two weeks ago and no further information has been available, and Palestine officials reported that they had received no instructions to proceed with the plans.

RETURN BODY OF GENERAL WOLTERS TO HOUSTON HOME

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The family of General Jacob F. Wolters planned today to return to the body to Houston, his home, for funeral services.

The noted former Texas National Guard leader, also prominent in political and legislative circles, died here yesterday of a heart ailment after a brief illness. He was 64 years old.

A private railway car was made available for removal of the body to Houston. Services were set for 3 p. m. Thursday at Christ Spiscopal church there and interment in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Bishop Clinton S. Quin and Dr. James Dewolfe of Houston and the Rev. James S. Allen of Austin will officiate.

Both houses of the legislature adopted resolutions expressing sorrow of his death. Ten senators eulogized him in addresses at a night session.

For many years he commanded the 56th Cavalry Brigade, Texas national guard, and was advanced to the rank of major general upon retirement in 1934.

He commanded troops on martial law duty in numerous instances, the last and probably most notable in the East Texas oil field during former Governor R. S. Sterling's administration.

He was well known in legislative circles. Many years ago he served as a representative. In recent years he was general counsel and legislative representative for the Texas Company.

TEXAS HIGHWAY COMMISSION HOLDS HEARING IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Texas highway commission today began a two-day hearing here, explaining at the outset that it could consider lateral road applications only, as funds for other types already had been exhausted.

Approximately 200 representatives of commissioners' courts and chambers of commerce in Northeast and Northwest Texas counties were at the hearing.

Commissioner John Wood explained that the regular federal aid funds already have been pledged. He added that $8,000,000 of state funds also have been pledged, and that the highway commission's treasury is at a lower ebb now than it has ever been.
